

ABOUT US- Here at Fortis Marketing we focus on getting leading brands and clients new customer acquisitions through a face-to-face market. Representing different clients across the market, we provide cost effective sales solutions for companies that are always in need of new customers.

Based in Belfast, we are always looking to increase our client's customer base, while we have a lot of fun ourselves. Our main requirements for candidates would be; Fun, A keen drive to succeed, and a great willingness to learn.

OUR GOALS - As a company, there are many things that we want to achieve over the next few years.

With some of the clients that we are currently working with always looking to expand their organisations and goals, they are always in need for new customers.

And as we have already had contact potential clients in the Southern Regions of Ireland, we are looking to expand into major cities across the UK and Ireland- such as Dublin, Cork and Galway.

We are always looking for likeminded people to hit our goals with us!

We also provide a number of things for the members of our team!

They include;

- Ongoing Sales Training
- One to One Mentoring
- Full Product Training
- International Seminars
- Access to a global network
- Exclusive Social Events

SALES - We provide constant sales training for members of our team who are always looking to upskill themselves in that department.

Representing some of the leading brands in multiple divisions, what sets us apart is the constant sales training and development for those eager to improve!

Comprehensive training is done not just on a morning basis, but for individuals asking for further training on a 1-1 basis is available if planned in advance.

BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT - For individuals who are looking for a bit more responsibility within our team we have a detailed business development program, outlining the key traits and skills to have to run a business within our sector.

For individuals who have more career aspirations with us, we have a detailed program with the training and development being tailored around the fundamentals of running a business in the sales world.

The development is a lot more focused on a 1-1 basis, with the goal of developing individuals into industry experts!

TRANSFERRABLE SKILLS - The skills that we provide and coach people on while with us we believe are transferrable into nearly any industry.

Whether people be with us for 2 months or 2 years, our feedback is always terrific!

The art of speaking with people and selling yourself in other industries is massive, and we are always looking to add more value to people to help them along their journey, whether it be with us or in something they are passionate about!

Is there something we can add to your current skillset?
